Unlike people, animals have no fundraising drives, no cancer survivor spokespersons, and no special events to bring their plight to the spotlight. Until now! The first five Trots have raised over $62,000.00 for canine cancer research. Scientists need continual funding for their valuable work in finding better treatments and cures for cancers in dogs. Enjoying an afternoon at the Trot with your dog and dog friends is a fun way to help them further this important work.

All proceeds from the Trot go to the University of Georgia's Arch Foundation for GA CaRES Fund.
By participating in the Trot today, you could be saving a life tomorrow!
